Good-Bye Old Friend of Steel and Concrete....we remember you when you were built in 1976—the year after we moved here.

We watched as you came together floor by floor, we walked through the rubble and watch you take form. Northbrook Court was built by Homart Development Company, a subsidiary of Sears. The Sears store opened with Northbrook Court., which later became JCPenney—and then became Marshall Fields-then Macys. As you would look across the fields to the west from "Sears" top floor—the tallest trees you could see standing were five monster pines....they were in our back yard! What a marker! What memories! Did you know that Glenbrook Countryside was a golf course and nursery before its development and dividing all into 1/2 acres?

The Smiths and several others in section / area 3 sit right on the land of the nursery. YES, WE DO LOVE our trees.

"*Thank You Again—those who came out in support of our issue with the Apt. Complex. This shows how important it is to have an active association."

.....On the horizon are new concerns—possibility of eliminating Northfield Twp.Hwy Dept. & possible annexation".
